Yes. Returns some or all of your premiums less any benefits paid under this coverage to your spouse or your estate if you die before age 75 while this coverage is in force.	Yes. Returns some or all of your premiums less any benefits paid under this coverage to your spouse or your estate if you die before age 75 while this coverage is in force.	No. Not applicable.

* A Special Note About Premiums and Inflation Protection: Buying inflation protection can help ensure that your benefits will keep pace with the rising costs of long-term care. However, premiums may increase should the CalPERS Board determine it necessary to ensure adequate funding to pay future benefits. This increase would take place for all members of the same age with similar coverage. Should a rate increase occur, all members would receive a 60-day written notice and would have the option to adjust their coverage in order to maintain the premium amount they had been paying, if that is more affordable for them.
